A NEW VICTOR RECORD OF The Star Spangled Banner

BY JOHN MCCORMACK
The day has come when the Star Spangled Banner takes on a new significance in the eyes of a war-torn world. It is the flag not of the United States alone, but of all humanity, which is unfurled in order that human rights shall be set firmly and irrevocably above all other rights. BOYS AT SHERIDAN SHOW FINE SPIRIT LOCAL MAN WRITES

Roland Baines in Letter to George S. Parker Tells of Embryo Officers' Enthusiasm.

A fine spirit of appreciation of the importance of the work in which they are engaged, and a general willingness to apply themselves assiduously to the arduous task of learning to become military men, are characteristic of the men enrolled in the officers' training corps at Fort Sheridan, according to a letter of Roland Baines of this city to George S. Parker. His letter follows in part:

"Dear Mr. Parker:

"Just a few lines to assure you that as one of the members of this training camp I have as yet no reason to regret my decision to take the course. The work is starting out in great shape and the men are taking hold with fine spirit. The enthusiasm and determination is all that will give us even the rudiments of what we ought to know in three months' time. It is appalling what a considerable number of men who have seen border service or had military experience or training of some kind.

"I am with a bunch of Michigan men and the fellows—a lot of them from Detroit. Haven't run across the other Janesville boys as yet, Bob Carle and Sherman, but will be able to find them in a little while. The company lists are complete. They are not in my barracks.

"We Michigan and Wisconsin men have the best of it in the quarters furnished us. Ours are the permanent barracks, and very comfortable—hot and cold water, shower baths, and all that. The officers are from the regular army, assisted by those from the reserves. They treat us as social equals, and indeed would have no reason for not doing so as the men on the whole are as fine a lot as you ever saw."

"We wind up with the spirit with which we are beginning. I have no doubt as to what we will accomplish."

Yours respectfully,
"O. R. BAINES,
Co. L, Barracks 18,
Fort Sheridan, Ill."

THRASH OUT PLANS FOR REGISTRATION

Mayor to Madison to Receive Definite Information Regarding Registration of Local Youth.

Mayor James A. Fathes this morning went to Madison to confer with Governor Philipp regarding the procedure to be followed in Janesville at the time of registration for all citizens within the age limits for military service.

Following the receipt of the letter from the governor regarding the registration of the election machinery for the city, Mayor Fathes began preparations for the work in Janesville. Later instructions disrupted the plans and led the mayor in a quandary, with the result that he sent to Madison this morning in hopes of straightening the matter out.

The mayor's idea was to use the old council chamber at the city hall for the place of registration, but it seems that the plan is to utilize the ward polling places. This necessitates the use of the ward election boards. No provision has been made whereby they would receive compensation for the work and thus far about fifty percent of the entire total of the regular officials have offered their services for registration duty gratis. A number of other men of the city, prominent in various lines of business etc., have announced themselves as willing to do the work without pay.

YOUTHFUL SPELLERS RIVAL OLD FOLKS

High School Students Stand Up Well With Their Elders in Old-fashioned Spelling Contest.

Further evidence that the training in the study of the English language is being given in the schools of today, was given last evening when high school spellers stood up with the "old folks" at an old-fashioned spelling contest held at the Presbyterian Church. The contest followed a challenge issued to the students at the high school by Mrs. George Rumrill.

While the older spellers won out two to one, the youngsters held on tenaciously and the prize of a book finally went to Miss Miriam Decker who went down on one of the last words pronounced.

The words were chosen by Sanford Soverhill for the old-time spellers and Miss Lillian Spohn for the High School spellers. There was an equalization of some forty on each team, he worked in an occasional catch word and finally wound up with some advanced scholars and the way the spellers went down on some of these words resembled an advance in the face of machine gun fire.

Miss Miriam Decker was the last survivor of the High School team, while Miss Grace Mount and Mrs. Percy Munger carried the Old Time Spellers flag to victory.

The contest which finally put the spellers out was "daggered type." The spell-out was preceded by a program as follows: Organ solo by Mrs. Moon; recitation by Mrs. Margaret McCulloch; recitations by Miss Welsh, readings by Mrs. Holsapple, and songs by a quartet composed of Miss Mabel Regan, Miss Margaret McCulloch, Arthur Schoof and Edwin Meade.

FEWER DRILLS FOR MEN OF COMPANY M

Proficiency of Men in Local Company Brings Slice in Army Duties—Dance Tonight.

Hereafter Company M will hold but one drill a week for the older men of the unit. This policy has been adopted by Captain E. N. Caldwell in view of the proficiency which the men have attained in the movements of close order formation and the tactics possible within the limited confines of the armory or the streets.

These men will be held on Tuesday evenings.

The rookies of the company, numbering about as many as the older men for whom complete equipment will be supplied, will continue to drill twice a week, on Monday and Thursday evenings, while Sergeant Woods is actively engaged in the training of the Edgerton platoon of the local company.

With the enlistment of Raymond Weeks of this city, the total enrollment of the company is up to 121, still fourteen short of the goal of 175 men, which Captain Caldwell aims to take to Camp Douglas when the national guard is ordered to mobilize. With the registration for all citizens this morning, every effort is being made to bring the additional men needed into the company before this time.

Under the direction of Captain Caldwell and Top Sergeant Fulton, the armory squad has given the new quarters in the Assembly Hall a more thorough renovation than that historic place has had in many a day. At the time the building was being scrubbed, the floor has been worked on unrelentingly, and the entire armory put into fine condition. A new piano has been secured and is being played for out of the money will be paid for out of the money.

The drill tonight will be held in the armory at eight o'clock, and a social invitation is extended to all to watch the drill and to attend the dance following the drill. Last Friday a far larger crowd attended the party than has been recorded at the previous evenings of the old armory.

HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO CONVENE IN BELLOIT

The annual district convention of the W. H. M. S. of the Methodist Episcopal church convenes in Beloit this week Wednesday and Thursday. A large delegation from the local society will have made arrangements to attend, one party going on the one o'clock train, another on the five o'clock train, and another on the five o'clock train.

The first session will be called to order at 2:30 p. m. at the church free of charge to all in attendance. In the evening an address will be given by Jacob Burnheim, who is at the home of the Harrier Center home in Chicago, situated in the Chicago ghetto and surrounded by ninety thousand people in one square mile, eighty-five per cent of whom are Jews.

Thursday will be given over to reports, map drills to locate the numerous homes and schools of the Home Missionary society all over the United States, election of officers and a program.

A 35 cent dinner will be served at noon. The Beloit organization urges every member of the society to attend.

YOUTH TO BELLOIT TO BE SENTENCED FOR FLIGHT AFTER RUNNING DOWN BOY

Today there are still fewer unsold sets of the popular

"Handy Volume" Issue of the new

Encyclopaedia Britannica

printed on genuine India paper

Today we have even less to say than yesterday—it would be useless to say any more when there are so few sets left

Action is the all-important thing of today. A decision to buy NOW—sending your first payment of $1 today, will make the Britannica an actual fact in your home. It will bring to you, to your wife, to your boys and girls, a reliable, authentic source of Knowledge, Culture, Education and Efficiency that will astound you as you grow to appreciate its wonderful usefulness in everyday affairs.

Saturday next—only 4 days off—this sale will end, because every set of the Britannica, printed on genuine India paper, will be sold. And we simply can't get another set—there is no more India paper to be had; no more can be manufactured, because the war makes it impossible to secure any more flax from Belgium, Ireland or Germany, and hemp from Russia, for the making of this beautiful thin and tough paper.

Today you are reasonably sure of getting a set—if you order it immediately. Tomorrow your prospect of securing a set will be less. And the next day you may be TOO LATE! (This advertisement was prepared and sent out to newspapers from Maine to California ten days ago. This was necessary to have it appear in all the cities of the United States and Canada on the same day. Our estimate as to how long the sets on hand would last was made 10 days ago and, of course, it is quite possible that the last set will be sold before next Saturday.)

It is NOW—or never, if you want one of these last India paper sets of the Britannica. You must decide YES—or no for all time—for, when the last of these sets is sold, it will be the last India paper set anywhere in the world.

If you don't know NOW how useful and helpful the Britannica would be to you, you haven't time to find out. But if you do know this, then—

This is your final chance!!!

Act!

A Wonderful New Volume

THE publishers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica announce that they have made arrangements for the issue, as soon after the end of the war as possible, of a new volume, containing a full and authoritative history of the war.

The new volume will be written by scholars and experts of the same high character as those who wrote for the Britannica itself, and by many of its own contributors. It will be absolutely impartial, excluding all partisan feeling and prejudice. It will contain:

1. A judicial account of the real causes of the war, the progress of the struggle, and the results all over the world; with maps, as necessary, to show changes in boundaries.

2. The lives of the new leaders, whether civil, military or naval, in the belligerent countries.

3. The results of the war outside the sphere of fighting, the progress of surgery, the prevention of contagious disease, the new scientific discoveries, etc.

The new volume will bridge the gap between the days of peace before and after the war. It will be printed and bound to match the Britannica and the publishers guarantee that no matter how difficult and costly the supplementary volume may be from the editorial point of view, the price of it to all who purchase the Britannica during the present sale will not be more than that of a corresponding volume of the Britannica.

H. Sutherland & Sons President

These Two Facts tell the story:

(1) Order a set at once if you want to make sure of getting one of these last India paper sets.

(2) Your first payment of only $1 secures you a set (29 volumes) and you profit by having the use of it while paying the balance in a limited number of monthly payments as low as $3 for the cloth binding.

Go and see sets of the Britannica at:

JAS. SUTHERLAND & SONS
12 SOUTH MAIN STREET JANESVILLE, WIS.

You can there select the binding you prefer, find out about convenient terms of payment, and leave your order. Or—this "Reserve Order," mailed at once with your first payment of only $1, will secure you a set. If the last set is gone before your order is received, your money will be returned.

Those who cannot go to the store may use this "Reserve" Order Form to reserve one set for you, just the same as if you ordered it in person.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., Chicago, Ill.

Please reserve me a set of the "Handy Volume" Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper. I enclose $1.00 as first payment. Send me an order form which I agree to sign and return immediately. cw-648

RETURN TO BARBARISM.

Are we deteriorating back to the stages of barbarism from which this world has risen during the centuries since Christ came upon the earth to preach "peace and good will to man." Centuries ago the so-called civilized nations of the world fought with spears and arrows, covered their bodies with liquid, poured stink pots and liquid fire upon the heads of their enemies, built battering rams to crush down city walls, and used elephants in armor to bring their light-armed men within touch of the invading hosts. Today they have the armour, they have the so-called "tanks," similar to the battering rams of the elephants, they throw liquid fire, the stink pots are supplanted by gas bombs, the spears are hand grenades and the arrows are thrown from aeroplanes with bombs attached. Are we progressing or going back to first principles.

Back when man first lived in the stone age he dressed himself and his women in skins of animals. Looking today and see the pelts of beasts swung across the shoulders of our women and wonder. Watch the surging man stand with an evening rod above his head, or a bit of rope near by and see him reach above his head to grasp the pole, or catch hold of the awning rope as it dangles. Our ancestors—according to Darwin—the monkey acted thus in his native wildness. Are we returning to barbarism?

The Bible tells us that all the first born in Egypt were killed by the avenging angel as a warning that the Jews must be liberated. The first born of northern France and Belgium are named or dead since this war began as a warning to their parents that there is a power, even greater than nature, waging an unmerciful warfare against humanity. Are we returning to barbarism?

The aged Senators sat in solemn silence and the invading hosts twined their beards, killed those they wished, and took the women who remained behind as captives. Then when driven back they left their trail upon future generations. The savage Hun, came down from some unknown world and did likewise. The hills were devastated, the farms destroyed, the men killed, the women subjected to tortures worse than death. They departed but they left their mark to be worked out in sequence of time by other generations. Are we returning to barbarism when we read the tales of northern France and Belgium and Serbia, poor, suffering Serbia, and other countries where the invading hosts have arrived?

We are about to send a host of armed men to Europe. Young men, the flower of our nation. They are going to defend the life of the world and its future. The cause is a righteous one. The duty is clear-cut. The rule and even of barbarism, the turn backwards to the days of the stone age and the following centuries must be ended and we must look onward and upward for a better and purer existence than is now offered in this world state.

THE FOOD SUPPLY.

Are we pressed about planting this or that crop, are we short of wheat, are we short of potatoes and beans, are we short of corn to blister their hands and heat their tempers, making gardens, but if we do not take care of the food supply we are remiss. The thought of saving all female calves and heifers from the butcher's block has been a popular one for a long time. It has become a beef producing animal and when developed into a cow gives more butter fat in milk than a steer does in the same line of food products. Why farmers do not see this and conserve their herds is a wonder. But we must go a step further. Why not stop the sale of spring lambs? True, they bring a fancy price, but wool is an important item in the manufacture of clothing, and do we not need clothing as well as a meal of baby lamb? They mature quickly, and before killed their wool is worth much to mankind, far more than the meat of their carcasses. Young lambs are up to the consumer a great deal of the cost of our food supply. If they refuse to buy young veal and lamb, it will mean that the supply will be decreased and the herds will increase. The demand always brings supply, both great and small. Years ago there was no demand for liver or kidneys; today they are eagerly sought. Sweet breads were once a luxury, now they are worth forty cents a pound. We ignore corn as a diet, yet south of the Mason and Dixie line it is the main staple. Right here in Rock County we are growing enough wheat to furnish every family with flour, if ground to the eighty to eighty-five per cent basis, for one year under minimum crop conditions. If these facts were to save let him cut down on the wheat flour, and not listen to their lobby seeking hearing to protect their industry. Right here in Rock County this spring there are an unusual number of lambs. Breeders say more than ordinarily. The great, supreme "Being" created them for some purpose, and it is safe to say for the use of mankind. This does not mean as food, while still too young to be useful from a wool standpoint, but to teach man to prepare for the future. The lesson should not be wasted. Remember, the famine in Egypt of seven years? The Bible tells that previous to it the land brought forth much produce, but except for the wisdom of Joseph it was not saved except in Egypt, and that led the children of Israel into bondage. We are in the same position today. We can produce the world's supply of grains and food and conservation here at home will place the whole world in bondage to us. Why not try it?

OFF TO THE WAR.

Soon the bands will begin playing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," for hundreds of thousands of "Johnnies" are going to have to march away within a short time. Those who have not enlisted in the regular arms of the United States service, will be named in the selective draft soon to be chosen, and whether they are on the first, second, or the third call, or even the fourth, they are bound to march away before "this cruel war is over."

This is no summer encampment down on the Mexican border, but a genuine war. You citizens who watched the conflagration that destroyed the buildings on the Milwaukee street bridge some few years ago remember how exhausted the Janesville fire-fighters became as the struggle continued and how welcome was the aid of the trained fire-fighters from Rockford who hurried here to our aid?

Well, the Janesville firemen rallied to the work when they had reinforcements, and conquered, but they were glad of the assistance. Just so is the aid that the United States is going to hand out to the European nations in fighting their foes. It is hands across the seas now.

Complaint is made that the Gazette supports cleaning up the river banks and still says nothing about the flat wheels on the Janesville street cars, the dirty condition of the cars themselves, and inefficient service. Of course these facts have been noted, but one would expect that the proper commission would be the proper authority to take action. That is what they are elected for, and certainly the city of Janesville deserves something better than dirty, second-hand cars and a running service that is a joke. In the future send your complaints to the city commissioners and if they take no action on it complain to the railroad commission which rectify matters. Meanwhile let's clean up the river banks.

The legislature is still in session. It will continue to grind out laws despite the fact the corn crop is ready to plant and the majority of the members are anxious to get home to see that this food conservation problem is looked after by experts, not amateurs.

Janesville may not be chosen as the location for the military cantonment for the Tenth territorial district, but the citizens will have the satisfaction of knowing that there were enough public-spirited citizens to offer a site of two thousand acres to the government at any rate.

Company M still accepts enlistments. Perhaps, however, those young men who have not yet decided in which branch of the service they intend to enlist, will prefer to wait until they are drafted and then they will have no choice.

As usual, the brewers' lobby has been successful in defeating the real will of the people as to that referendum measure and are now chuckling in their sleeves. However, there is a day of reckoning coming.

Everyone prayed for rain but they did not want zero weather with it. The rain was needed, but not a flood or a return of Jack Frost to nip the few buds that have dared to show themselves.

FEATHER FEET AND SHINY NOSE.

(Translated from the Indian.)
 Once upon a time, there was a young Indian lady with long, straight, coarse black hair, copper, weather-beaten skin, high cheekbones, bluish eyes and with figure strong and supple. She was a perfect specimen of Indian beauty!

Her name was Feather-Foot, for her tread was almost as light as the heaviest feather.
 Now Feather-Foot loved Hale-and-Harty, the son of old Chief Smoke-in-the-Face who loved not Feather-Foot, but Shiny-Nose, the bold, bad daughter of Chief Dribble-than-Fish and Squaw-Square-Round.

Shiny-Nose didn't love young Hale-and-Harty. She didn't even like anybody, so he had a hard time keeping the youngbloods away from his beautiful Shiny-Nose.

So, one day Shiny-Nose-in-a-Tail, the village knothole, ran to Feather-Foot and told her that Hale-and-Harty was in the tope of Chief Zula offering her his wagon-load of Zula scalps, his snake-skin full of snake-birds' teeth, his copper tepee, and his soft cozy blanket of elephants' hair.

This happy news made Feather-Foot so very happy that she picked up a dagger, a bow, and a dozen arrows and started on a fox-trot over the valley to the tent of Shiny-Nose.

Throwing her moccasins up in the air and juggling them a few minutes (the Indian girl's silent declaration of war), she charged upon the wigwag. She was just in time to see Shiny-Nose in Hale-and-Harty's place, and follow it up with an earthen bowl.

Feather-Foot, with a cry of dismay and love for Hale-and-Harty, with one squirk of the dagger, put Shiny-Nose out of commission.

FINLAND SEEKS COMPLETE SEPARATION FROM RUSSIA

(By Associated Press.)

Helsingfors, May 22, via Petrograd and London.—A conference of the Swedish political party representing a majority of Finland's wealthiest and most influential classes, yesterday passed a resolution favoring complete separation of the grand duchy of Finland from Russia.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

TO BE SURE
 Are they the happiest whose lives
 Are blessed with wealth and ease.
 With motor-cars and lovely wives
 And travel when they please,
 Who never feel the pinch of need,
 Yet after all are they, indeed,
 The happiest we ask?

They seem so free of mortal fears,
 They seem to laugh at Fate,
 They frolic with the passing years,
 They joy in their estate,
 So filled with laughter, love and youth,
 Their lives appear to fit,
 That oftentimes, to tell the truth,
 We envy them a bit.

For thus it is with erring Man
 He sees the favored few,
 And thinks how best his little span
 Were he as favored too.
 He thinks that Life is finer far
 When wealth and ease are his,
 And never he knows if his mar-
 (In fact, he knows it is!)

HAPPY THOUGHT.
 The Best Thing to get next to your Health is to Get Next to Yourself.

Getting Up.
 Sometimes one feels that the least said about the miseries of life the better. Let us face the Light and try to forget the burdens. And yet there are times when it is well to look frankly at the Worst off Life.

 The Crucial and Horrors. Like Getting up in the Morning.

After it is all over one realizes that it was for the Best. One is likely to say to one's wife, "I'm glad I finally got up. Emma. There's a number of things I've got to attend to. But for a while there I had a mind not to.
 Before getting up one lies in bed considering the idea. At first thought it is wholly revolting. One rolls over. Then come feelings of self-reproach. The principal of the thing. One's duty to others. Thinking of the wife and children. One yields to the nobler impulse.

As a rule the nobler impulse wins
 by only a slight margin. The battle, you might say, is about 51 getting up and 49 staying in bed. It is an unpleasant thought, but some day the nobler impulse will not win. Staying in bed will get the 51 votes. And that morning nobody anywhere in the world will get up. After all, will it make much difference?

Lines to a Beautiful Young Man in a Clothing Ad.
 You are so tall, so handsome, brave and fair.

What strength is thine and what a princely grace!
 Such new clothes you always seem to wear!

You have so nice a face!

What doting mother raised thee, by the way?

You seem to show a woman's tender care.

And did she teach you how to tie your tie?

And did she watch you grow from early youth.

Thy manly beauty bloom, with joyful pride.

And grow and grow until at last, in truth,

You towered at her sides?

She watched thy growth with pride, as mothers do.

Till passing common height, she went and all!

How does she like you now, a Freak,
 for you

At least are ten feet tall?

The most Miserable Man is the one who is miserable because someone else is happy.

As The Result of One Week's Sales Thrift Bread is Being Eaten by Fifteen Hundred Residents of Janesville.

The exclusive use of "Thrift" as a bread flour in Rock County would save to the consumer over Two Hundred Thousand Dollars per year.

Further, by displacing a like quantity of "Patent" the result would be equal to the production in Rock County of Two Hundred and Twenty Thousand bushels of Wheat per year.

Sacrificing nothing in nutrition, the Consumer substitutes only the Nut Brown Leaf for the White.

With the combined Winter and Spring Wheat crops insufficient to supply the combined Domestic and Export demand, can you do your "bit" toward conserving supply and your own expense to better advantage than by using "Thrift?"

DRAFT QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

THE WAR DEPARTMENT ACTS THROUGH MEDIUM OF ELECTION BOARDS.

ARE MOST SEARCHING

Blank Warns All Men Who Register to Make Truthful Replies or Suffer the Consequences.

June 5th is the official date for registration of all civilians between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one for military purposes. So many requests have come asking for definite information as to what the questions asked are to consist of and how they shall be answered that the Gazette has arranged the following suggestions for consideration of those who will have to register.

Who is 21?
And who is a person 31?

Every man whose age hovers around 20 or 30 is at a loss to know whether he will be included in the draft measure as provided by congress. Many mothers called up the Gazette, anxious to have their doubts removed.

The most plausible explanation seemed to be this: All persons are liable to draft who have observed the twenty-first anniversary of their birth, but have not yet celebrated their thirty-first anniversary. All persons who are old enough to be legal voters and have not yet arrived at 31, is another way of putting it. Relative to the matter of the anniversary in question occurring at the time of conscription it is probable that military officers will be given judicial authority.

But, who is 31? Probably only congress knows.

The questions, and the manner in which they are to be answered are as follows:

1—This means all your names spelled out in full. State your age in years only. Disregard additional months and days.

2—This means the place where you have your permanent home, not the place where you work. Be prepared to give the address of the place where you were born, and the address of your present home.

3—Date of birth.

4—Are you a natural-born citizen, a naturalized citizen, an alien, or have you declared your intention to become a citizen? Specify which.

5—If you were born in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, you are a natural-born citizen. You are a naturalized citizen if you have completed your naturalization papers. You are an alien if you have not taken out your final papers. You are a declarant if, although a citizen of some foreign country, you have declared your intention to become a citizen. You are an alien if you do not fall within one of these three classes.

6—Where were you born?
First the name of the town, then the name of the county.

7—If you are not a citizen, of what country are you a citizen or subject? This must be answered by aliens and declarants. Remember that a declarant is not a citizen.

8—What is your present trade, occupation or office?

9—This does not ask what you once did, or what you have once done, nor what you are best fitted to do. It asks what your job is right now. State briefly as "Farmer," "Miller," "Student," etc.

10—By whom employed, where employed?

11—If working for a firm or corporation state its name. If you are independent, specify so.

12—Have you a father, mother, wife, child under 12 years of age, or a sister or brother solely dependent upon you for support? (Specify which.) Consider your answer thoughtfully. If it is true that there is another person upon whom you have a duty to feed, do not let your patriotism lead you to the wish of the nation to reduce misery to the minimum. On the other hand do not hide behind petticoats or children.

13—Married or single (which)?

14—Does not ask whether you were once married but whether you are married now.

15—What military service have you? Specify.

16—What rank? Branch? Years? Nation or state?

No matter what country you served, you must give complete information. Give answers as follows: "Private," "Infantry," "National guard, Wisconsin." Do not count years in reserve.

17—Do you claim exemption from draft? Specify grounds.

18—Exemption of Exemptions.

Because you claim exemption from the draft, it by no means follows that you are exempt. For the information of those who are not exempt, you must make a claim now if you intend to prosecute it. Some persons will be exempted on account of their occupations or offices. Some have relatives dependent upon them for support. Your touching these things will be important in supporting the claim you now intend to make in your answer to the question. Be sure, therefore, that the grounds you now state are in conformity with your answers to questions seven and eight.

19—If you are employed in the transmission of the United States mails or as an artificer or workman in an armory, arsenal or navy yard or in the United States or if you are a mariner employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States, so state.

20—If you are a felon or otherwise morally deficient and desire to claim exemption on that ground, state your ground briefly. If you claim physical disability, state in brief. If you claim exemption on any other ground, state your ground briefly.

WIND BREAKS ALARM WIRES; FIREMEN MAKING REPAIRS.

The heavy winds of the night and morning today raised havoc with wires of the fire alarm system. At noon the department had experienced no less than eight breaks in wires. Spasmodic ringing of alarm bells was the result. All men available, without placing a handicap should be making the repairs for their use.

ARRANGE A BENEFIT TO RAISE FUND FOR AMBULANCE DRIVERS

Beverly Theatre Gives Proceeds From June 5th Program to Make Up Fund for Pond and Loomis.

Manager Hogan of the Beverly Theatre today arranged to give a benefit entertainment on Tuesday, June 5th, the proceeds of which will be used to make up the deficit required to send Alonzo W. Pond and Alonzo Loomis to France, where they will enter the service as ambulance drivers for the American ambulance division now with the French army.

The attraction scheduled for this occasion will be Norma Talmadge in "The Law of Compensation," a feature picture which has been especially recommended by Janesville parties who have seen it. Chicago tickets are on sale at the Beverly theatre on Tuesday. The three regular shows will be given, although it is possible that two shows may be given in the afternoon if the tickets are sold rapidly.

Additional interest will be attached to the benefit program for the reason that it will be given on the day set aside for the registration of all persons between the ages of 21 to 30 inclusive for the selective conscription army which will be raised this summer. The day will be observed throughout the country as a holiday and will be filled with patriotic demonstrations. It is appropriate that this benefit picture should be shown on this day for so worthy a cause.

Both Pond and Loomis will leave early in June for France, where they will be given immediate training in automobile driving and ambulance work. They will be sent to the front. Their work will take them to the edge of the firing line. All of their trips from the base hospital to the front will be made in their ambulances unlighted, much of the time under fire. Ambulance drivers, especially those with the American division, have remarkable records for heroic service.

LOCAL LODGES BUY LIBERTY LOAN BONDS

Elks and Masons Purchase Bonds and Other Societies Are Considering Similar Action.

As their part in aiding the nation in the war effort of the war, the E. P. O. E. of the Janesville Chapter, No. 5, R. A. M., and Knights of Columbus, have purchased Liberty loan bonds, following a decision reached in their lodges. A similar course is being followed by a number of other fraternal organizations in this city, and men connected with the lodge are urging all patriotic citizens to buy some of these war bonds.

The terms upon which the bonds may be purchased are unusually lenient, and the bonds constitute an admirable investment, aside from the patriotism which societies can indicate by buying them at this time. Many orders, who have been wishing for some manner in which to do their bit, are expected to accept this opportunity, and to buy as many of the bonds as possible.

ALLEGED SLAVER HAS HIS HEARING

Stanley Brown, Colored, Who Is Charged With Violating the Mann Act Before Commissioner Tallman.

Tales of a sordid life by the state's chief witness, Helen Barre, against Stanley Brown, colored, were heard in United States Court Commissioner Stanley D. Tallman's court today when Brown was charged with violating the Mann act by transporting the Barre girl from Chicago to Beloit for immoral purposes. The couple were arrested in Beloit May 2nd following a report of a colored construction camp, and the woman is now serving a sixty day sentence in jail while Brown is held for examination on the charge of serious charge. United States District Attorney Arthur Mulberger of Watertown represented the government and was assisted by District Attorney Duwidt of Beloit. Brown's story was most revolting, and she told details of her life that were disgusting. The hearing took all the morning and well into the afternoon. Brown was placed on the stand and denied the girl's story in toto, and claiming his arrest was a mistake.

OBITUARY.

Willet T. Decker.
The funeral of the late Willet T. Decker was held yesterday afternoon at two o'clock from the home, 638 North Hickory street, and at half past two from Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Henry Wilmann conducted the services. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were: Frank Douglas, R. L. Roberts, John Decker, and Theodore Decker.

A great number of people gathered at the church to pay their respects to the deceased. This was a life well lived. From out of town many people came to attend the services. Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Decker, Willis Decker and Fred Fellows, Evansville, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Decker and Henry Decker, of Orfordville; Mrs. Billie Sioux Falls, S. D.; Mrs. William A. Drummond, Charles A. Knippenberg, Duluth, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Asby, Orfordville; Mrs. H. H. Hatch, Edgerton; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Milwaukee.

Margaret Bell.
Funeral services for the late Margaret Bell will be conducted by the Rev. C. Y. Love at the home of her parents in Johnston, Center, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in Johnston Center cemetery.

Patrick Lillis.
The funeral of the late Patrick Lillis will be held tomorrow morning at half past ten at St. Patrick's church. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

At Madison Meeting: Simon Smith of Beloit and H. W. Lee of this city, president and secretary respectively of the Rock County Council of Boy Scouts, were in Madison today to attend the conference called by the state council with representatives of the various county committees.

District Convention: The twenty-sixth quarterly meeting of district association No. 36, O. C. P. E., was held at Beloit Wednesday, May 22. There will be a large delegation from Janesville in attendance. The afternoon program is called for two o'clock and the evening degree work and social time at eight o'clock.

BRITISH BLUEBLOOD IS STILL UNSHAKEN BY RUSSIAN REVOLT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, May 22.—In the days immediately following the abdication of the czar one frequently heard the "King George" next. One revolution like Russia's clearly is not in the public mind.

In the first place the people of England have no particular fault to find with their king. References to his German blood are commonplace, but this is regarded as his misfortune rather than his fault and there is none to say he has not played up to his part as an Englishman.

Any dissatisfaction that may have been felt at any time with the management of England's part in the war was not directed against the king. Incidentally, it would be hard to find any dissatisfaction on that score since the new advance on the west front has begun.

It is the same with social unrest. Sufferers from economic conditions—war-made or otherwise—do not lay the blame at the door of the Buckingham Palace. The expense of maintaining the English throne lays little burden on the people. Whereas conceding the czar's lands meant adding an estate as large as the British empire to the public wealth, such a concession in Great Britain would mean only an imperceptible increase. For years it has been a boast in England that they are supported here at less expense than in any other important country.

Persistent inquiry reveals that the labor forces of this country have no thought of anti-monarchical outbreaks. Their minds are focused on industrial problems of the present and, even more, on the great problem of demobilization when the armies are mustered.

They will tell you that if anybody is agitating the abolishment of hereditary monarchy in England it is the workers. They are not, they say, too little part in the relations between employers and employees to justify any objections on their part. Some even suggest that an anti-monarchical demonstration may be fomented by quite other forces. Three other forces are represented—in this view—by the general (1) Capital, (2) the army, and (3) the labor. Big employers would sacrifice the throne to save their profits, according to this argument.

On the other hand there are those who believe that capital and the nobility are so intermingled, so many capitalists being nobles and so many nobles being capitalists, that the capital would not be guilty of so short-sighted a policy. Remove royalty and you remove the nobility, they explain, since there can't be the latter without the former.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ENDS FIGHT ON EVJUE BILL

country, Turner, Webster, Whittingham, Woodard, Young, Whittell—44.

Against Reconsideration and Recall: Anderson, Beggs, Carter, Casperson, Chipman, Connors, Duffy, Englebrecht, Everson, Eyjue, Frohader, Galbraith, J. C. Hanson, C. E. Hansen, Hemmy, Jensen, Johnson, Kandutsch, Luhrs, Melvin, V. Miller, Pieper, Roca, Saven, Schelle, Schwartz, Spoor, Stone, Van Doren, Vaughan, Webster, B. Whiteside, Wieckert, Williams.

Paired: For reconsideration Mahon, Agniet, Nordman.

George Losey showed that nineteen members were absent, but that the vote had a majority of those present. In the uniform of a recruit of the naval reserve, Agniet, a member of the Milwaukee returned to vote in favor of the reconsideration of the bill. Evjue now moved a call of the house which completely tied up the proceedings. At adjournment was defeated, 47 to 35. At midnight both houses of the legislature were under a call.

Among those absent at midnight were: Assemblymen Bae, Carpenter, Hess, Jesske, Marlett, O'Brien, Schindler, Szwedkowski, and Smith of Milwaukee.

When a man creates a trust which he wishes carried out according to his plans, he will be best served by a corporate trustee.

A trust fund may be created by deed instead of will and the creator may reserve the income to himself for life and may also reserve the right to control the investment of the fund and to revoke the trust if occasion should require.

This company will as carefully serve the small estate as the large one.

THREE CHOICES FOR SERVICE ON LAND

By CAPTAIN GEORGE L. KILMER.

If a budding war hero chooses the naval service the first thing is to annex his activities to some floating thing, whether on creek, pond, canal or ocean—that is, after learning to swim. If no craft is handy the next best thing is to make and handle a raft.

But, supposing the choice to be service on land, there are the cavalry, infantry and artillery to choose from, perhaps. Much depends on a candidate's size, weight, intelligence and training in civil life.

A cavalryman should know some things—much, in fact—about horses, and a certain number of horsemen are needed in artillery. In infantry hardy physique is of first importance, and good preparedness for this arm is long, low walks, carrying a load of forty to sixty pounds.

In all arms of service the soldier may be required to work on sparse allowances of rations, coarse at that, so preparedness should include discipline of the stomach to digest the "iron" ration served on a campaign. This suggests that there are army occupations quite as important, though less picturesque than that of fighter. Cooks are always in demand.

The war department classification of trades and business lines which fit men for service includes, besides the above named, feed and grain business, wagon, machine, harness and auto repair shops and factories, grocery, department, clothing and shoe and hat stores, packing houses, restaurant and hotel business, building trades and engineering. A man trained in any of these branches can serve his country well.

The Man Without A Country

By EDWARD EVERETT HALE

PART I.

PHILIP NOGAN was as fine a young officer as there was in the "Legion of the West," as the western division of our army was then called. When Aaron Burr made his first dashing expedition down to New Orleans in 1805 at Fort Massena or somewhere above on the river he met, as the devil would have it, this gay, dashing, bright young fellow at some dinner party, I think. Burr marked him, talked to him, walked with him, took him a day or two's voyage in his dashing bark in short, fascinated him. For the next year harpoon life was very tame to poor Nolan. He occasionally availed of the permission the great man had given him to write to him. The other boys in the garrison sneered at him because he so-called in this required affection for a politician the time which they devoted to monogamy, sledge and high-low jack. Bourbon, snuff and poker were still unknown. But one day Nolan had his revenge. This time Burr came down the river not as an attorney seeking a place for his office, but as a disguised conqueror. It was rumored that he had an army behind him and an empire before him. It was a great day—his arrival to poor Nolan. Burr had not been at the fort an hour before he sent for him. That evening he asked Nolan to take him out in his skiff to show him a canoe-broke or a cottonwood tree, as he said. Really to seduce him—and by the time the sail was over Nolan was calisthenic body and soul. From that time, though he did not yet know it, he lived as "a man without a country."

What Burr meant to do I know no more than you, dear reader. It is none of our business just now. Only when the grand catastrophe came some of the lesser fry at that distant Mississippi valley to whom away the monotony of the summer at Fort Adams got up for spectacles a string of court martials on the officers there. One and another of the colonels and majors were tried, and, to fill out the list, little Nolan, against whom, heaven knows, there was evidence enough—that he was sick of the service, had been willing to be false to it and would have obeyed any order to march anywhere with any one who would follow him had the order only been signed. "By command of His Exc. A. Burr." The courts dragged on. The big flies escaped—rightly for all I know. Nolan was proved guilty enough as I say, yet you and I would never have heard of him, remember, but that, when the president of the court asked him at the close whether he wished to say anything to show that he had always been faithful to the United States he cried out in a fit of frenzy:

"D— the United States! I wish I may never hear of the United States again!"

I suppose he did not know how the words shocked old Colonel Morgan, who was holding the court. Nolan had grown up in the west of those days in the midst of "Spanish plot," "Orleans plot" and all the rest. He had been educated on a plantation where the finest company was a Spanish officer or a French merchant from Orleans. His education, such as it was, had been perfected in commercial relations to Vera Cruz and I think he told me his father once hired an Englishman to be a private tutor for a winter on the plantation. He had spent half his youth with an older brother hunting horses in Texas, and, in a word, to him "United States" was scarcely a reality. Yet he had been led by "United States" for all the years since he had been in the army. He had sworn on his faith as a Christian to be true to "United States." It was "United States" which gave him the uniform he wore and the sword by his side. I do not excuse Nolan. I only explain to the reader why he damned his country and wished he might never hear her name again.

He never did hear her name but once again. From that moment, Sept. 23, 1807, till the day he died, May 11, 1863, he never heard her name again. For that half century and more he was a man without a country.

Old Morgan, as I said, was terribly shocked. He called the court into his private room and returned in fifteen minutes with a face like a sheet, to say:

"Prisoner, hear the sentence of the court. The court decides, subject to the approval of the president, that you never hear the name of the United States again."

Nolan laughed. But nobody else laughed. Old Morgan was too solemn, and the whole room was hushed dead as night for a minute. Even Nolan lost his swagger in a moment. Then Morgan added: "Mr. Marshall, take the prisoner to Orleans in an armed boat and deliver him to the naval commander there."

The marshal gave his orders, and the prisoner was taken out of court. "Mr. Marshall," continued old Morgan, "see that no one mentions the United States to the prisoner. Mr. Marshall, make my respects to Lieutenant Mitchell at Orleans and request him to order that no one shall mention the United States to the prisoner while he is on board ship. You will receive your written orders from the officer on duty here this evening. The court is adjourned without day."

WHITEWATER PLANS RED CROSS BENEFIT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Whitewater, May 22.—For the first time in its history, Whitewater normal school is not planning to give a pageant. The national situation is the reason for the change. Both faculty and students feel that this is no time to devote energy and money to an event the purpose of which is only pleasure. The men of the school are going into gardening on a large scale. Two acres of ground adjoining the campus are to be planted to beans, and the proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

The girls have decided to "do their bit" by giving a fete. It will take place at four o'clock Monday afternoon, June 4, on Hamilton street, and the admission price will be twenty-five cents.

Aesthetic dancing, music and drill in a setting of out-of-doors are sufficient inducements in themselves to attract a crowd. Every cent of the proceeds will be used to help the work of the Red Cross. The weather is not to be consulted. In case of storm, the whole production will move into the spacious new gymnasium, so no rain checks will be needed.

It is expected that nearby towns will give this project even more generous support than they have given in the past to the pageant.

LIMA

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Prof. Brander Matthews has been comparing the movies and the drama, and has written his conclusions for the North American Review. These agree pretty generally with the views of other distinguished critics, including G. Bernard Shaw.

These critics keep in mind a distinction between the art of the drama and the business of the theater. Matthews says that the movies compete with the nondramatic theater enterprises such as musical reviews and vaudeville performances, and under forms of farce and melodrama, but that the movies never can be a real rival of the drama.

He says it is of course true that the moving picture director can take a drama and translate it to the screen. But all he can put on the screen is "the mere story, the empty sequence of events, void of all the humanity that gives it meaning."

"Hamlet" in pictures must leave out all that lifted "Hamlet" above the violent melodrama from which Shakespeare constructed it. Shakespeare's masterpiece, in pictures, is necessarily robbed of all vitality and significance, and reduced to the purely spectacular level of "The Birth of a Nation."

Matthews points out that the movies can do certain kinds of melodrama and farce better than the theater. The shrewder movie producers are seeking original stories invented by men and women who are mastering the new art of telling tales by visual means alone, and who so plan them as to minimize the disadvantages of the moving picture's strict limitations.

He says that as the moving picture explores and develops its own field it is likely to diverge more and more from the methods of the drama. As this goes on, he says, the movies will cease even to appear to be a rival of the drama.

Beatrice Michelene has filed suit to restrain the production of "The Eternal Mephisto." She says some of the scenes were originally taken for "Faust" and objects to the new subject on the ground that it's a "white slave" play.

Ann Ivers, making a debut in movie comedies, says: "I'll stand for having pie thrown at me, but I draw the line at being stuck again with a fork."

FOND DU LAC FARMERS REPAIR STORM DAMAGE

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 22.—Farmers in this county are busy restoring damaged buildings which were wrecked by the cyclonic storm which struck the area on Saturday. The windstorm did not do the most damage to the crops, but it did cause some loss of property and a heavy property loss. The farmers are busy repairing the damage to their buildings and crops. The loss of property is estimated at $100,000. The loss of crops is estimated at $200,000. The loss of property is estimated at $100,000. The loss of crops is estimated at $200,000.

WOMEN DOING MEN'S WORK

One of the most striking results of the war is the extent to which women are doing the work of men. Travellers to England and France report that practically every automobile, bus, and truck is being driven by women. In uniform and in civilian dress, women are doing the work of men. They are doing the work of men. They are doing the work of men.

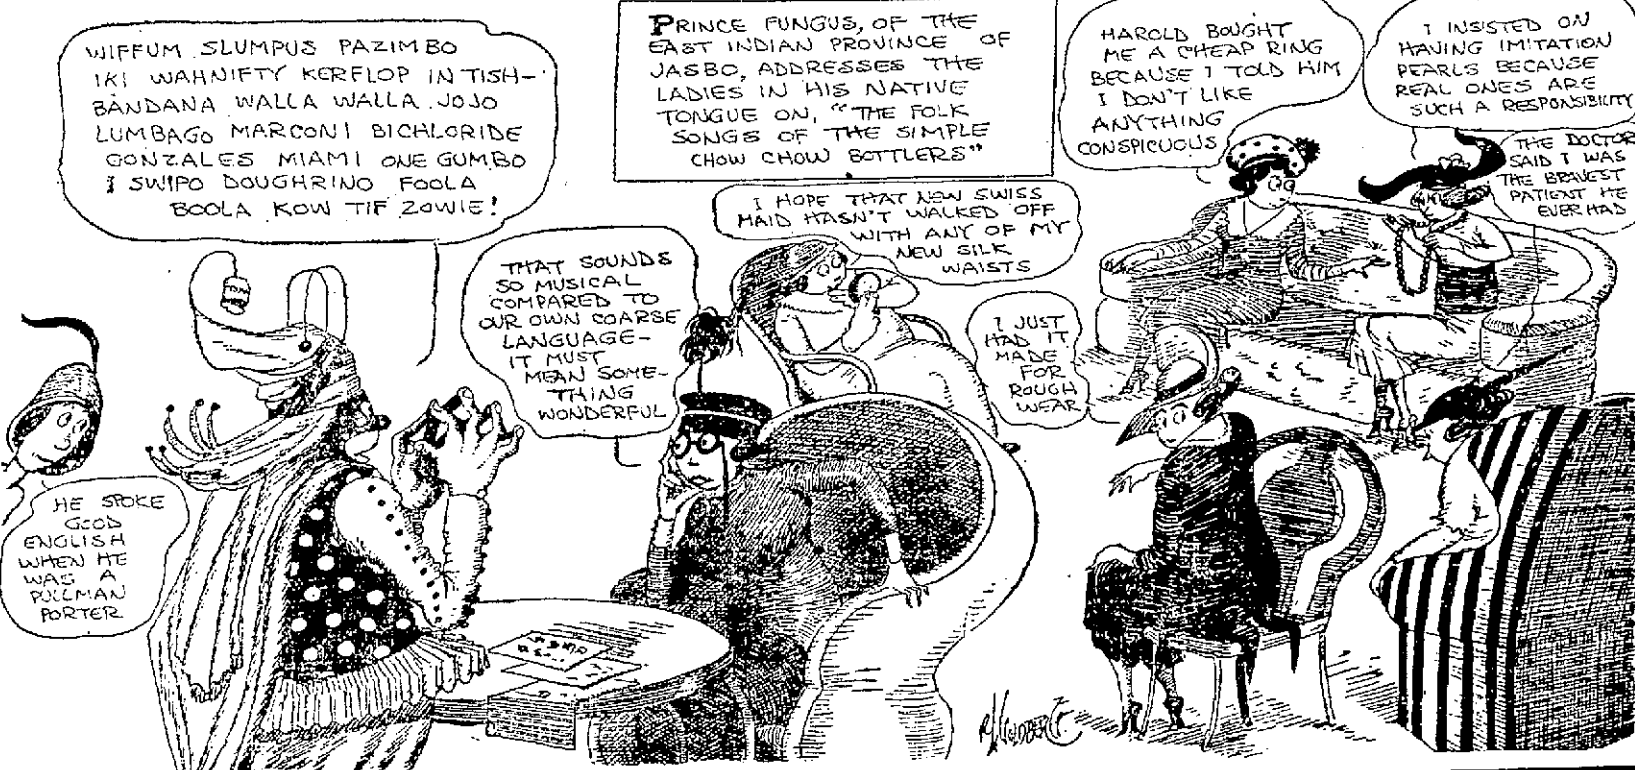

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their cars as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive looks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they have all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or water, but with a simple mixture of perfume and water. The perfume is a special preparation of the hairdresser. It is a simple mixture of perfume and water. The perfume is a special preparation of the hairdresser.

"Can't Cut Off My Leg," Says Railroad Engineer

"I am a railroad engineer; about 20 years ago my leg was seriously injured in an accident. Out West, I'm on my knees to allow the doctor to amputate it. I was told it would be impossible to heal the wound. I have tried all kinds of salves and had many doctors in the past 20 years, but to no avail. Finally I resolved to use PETERSON'S OINTMENT on my leg. You cannot imagine my astonishment when I found it failed to do. My leg is now completely healed. I am a railroad engineer, 799 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y."

And the woman! How if it killed her? He could not think of that. He could think of nothing but of that inert body and its demand.

"Have you no witnesses, no evidence to substantiate your extraordinary statement?" asked Rodney.

"I can substantiate it," said Shurtliff, coming into the room, having finished his telephoning. "The doctor and the police will be here immediately, but before they come, I will draw myself up and faced the reporters boldly. 'Gentlemen, I can testify that everything that Mr. Bertram Meade has said is true. I happened to be here when my dead friend and employer got the telegram announcing the failure of the bridge and, although he knew it was his son's fault, he bravely offered to assume the responsibility and he told me to go to the newspapers and tell them that it was his fault and that his son had protested in vain against his design.'"

"Why didn't you do it?" asked one of the reporters.

"I couldn't, sir," faltered the old man. "It wasn't true. The son there was to blame."

He sank down in his seat and covered his face with his hands and broke into dry, horrible sobs. It was not easy for him either, this shifting of responsibility.

"You see," said young Meade. "I guess that settles the matter. Now you have nothing more to do here."

"Nothing," said Rodney at last, "not in this office at least. We must wait for the doctor, but we can do that outside."

One by one the men filed out, leaving the dead engineer with his son, the secretary, and the woman in the room.

"Bertram," said the woman, laying her hand on his shoulder, "why or how I feel I cannot tell, but I know in my heart that you are doing this for your father's sake, that what you said was not true. Things you have said to me—"

"Did I ever say anything to you," began Meade in a fierce alarm, while Shurtliff started to speak but checked himself. "To tell you to think that I suspected any weakness in the bridge?"

"The woman was watching him keenly and listening to him with every sense on the alert. Nothing was escaping her and she detected in his voice a note of sharp alarm and anxiety as if he might have said something which could be used to discredit his assertion now."

"Perhaps not in words but in little things, suggestions," she answered quietly. "I can't put my hand on any of them. I can hardly recall anything, but the impression is there."

Meade smiled miserably at her and again her searching eyes detected relief in his.

"It is your affection that makes you say that," he said, "and as you admit there is really nothing. What I said just now is true."

Shurtliff. In his turn she also seized him in her emotion and she shook him almost eagerly.

"You, you know that it is not true. Speak!"

But she had not the power over the older man that she had over the younger. The secretary forced himself to look at her. He cared nothing for Miss Illingworth, but he had a passion for the older Meade that matched hers for the younger.

"He has told the truth," he cried almost like a baited animal. "No one is going to ruin the reputation of the man I have served and to whom I have given my faith, his, his, his!" he cried, his voice rising with every repetition of the pronoun as he pointed at Meade.

Helen Illingworth turned to her lover again. She was quieter now.

"I know that neither of you is telling the truth," she said. "Lying for a great cause, lying in splendid self-sacrifice. You are ruining yourself for your father's name and he is abetting. Why? It can't make any difference to him now. But it makes a great difference to me. Have you thought of that? I'm going to marry you anyway. Only tell me the truth, Bert. By our love I ask you. If you want me to keep your secret I'll do it. But if you won't tell me I'll get that evidence, I will find out the truth, and then I shall publish it to the whole world and then—"

"And you would marry me then?" asked Meade, swept away by this profound pleading.

"I will marry you now, instantly, at any time," answered the girl. "Indeed you need me. Guilty or innocent, I am yours and you are mine."

"Listen," protested the engineer, "nothing will ever relieve me of the blame of the shame of the disgrace of this. But I am a man. I have youth still, and strength and inspiration. Until I can hold up my head among men I am nothing to you and you are free."

There was a finality in his tone which the woman recognized. She followed her father out of the room. There he had to fight off the reporters. He denied that his daughter was going to marry young Meade. She strove to speak and he strove to force her to be quiet. In the end she had her way.

"At Mr. Meade's own request," she said finally, "our engagement has been broken off. Personally I consider myself as much bound as ever, but in deference to his wishes and to my father's—"

"Have you said enough?" roared the colonel, losing all control of himself at last. "No, I will not be questioned or interrupted another minute. Come!"

He almost dragged the girl from the room.

Within the private office the physician said that everything pointed to a heart lesion, but only an autopsy would absolutely determine it. Meanwhile the law would have to take charge of the body temporarily. It was late at night before Bertram Meade and old Shurtliff were left alone. Carefully seeing that no one was present in the suite of offices Meade turned to Shurtliff.

"Ger me that memorandum I wrote to my father. You know where he kept it."

"Yes, sir, separate from the other papers concerning the International. In the third compartment." He turned the big safe door slowly. The third compartment was empty. "It's gone," he said.

"Come on Over, See My Corn Fall Off!"

"I Put 2 Drops of 'Gets-It' on Last Night—Now Watch—"

"See—all you have to do is to use your two fingers and lift the corn right off. That's the way. 'Gets-It' always works. You just put on about 2 drops. Then the corn not only shrivels, but comes from the toe, without affecting the surrounding flesh to the least. Why, it's almost a pleasure to have corns and see how 'Gets-It' gets them off in a hurry and without the least pain. I can wear tight shoes, dance, and walk as though I never had corns."

Dinner Stories

As George folded the fair young creature to his heart a dull, cracking sound smote his ear.

"Ah! it's goodbye to those cigars in my vest pocket," he said grimly; "but hang the expense at a moment like this!"

During the history of the institution of marriage there has developed a rich cycle of married life stories. Including the wife's explanation of the term "stag party" as probably derived from Scott's familiar line, "the stag at eve had drunk his fill," the stag at eve had drunk his fill, the stag at eve had drunk his fill.

Or, take the case of the husband who, putting on a bold front to complain of the clock's having run down, said, "Well, it's funny about that clock. I'm sure I wound it last night." "No, William, was the key right?" "You are mistaken. What you wound up was Standler's music box."

If there was one thing Nancy hated it was going to bed; there was always an argument before there was tired to rest.

"Come dear," said her mother one evening, "it is getting quite late, and you should be in bed."

Nancy's little brain worked quickly. "But, mother," she protested, "it won't be any earlier up there than down here."

"Do these high prices make you feel prosperous?"

"No, replied Farmer Cornsness. 'Every time I sell anything now I figure on what I lost by not waiting a few weeks while prices went up still more.'"

"This war will test America through and through. It will test her efficiency—her political and industrial capacities—her power to handle big things in a big way.

"It will test the valor of her sons, and the endurance of her daughters.

"It will test the national spirit of self-sacrifice, and most of all, perhaps, it will test the national gift of imagination.

"Tremendous results await the United States, if she is to fulfil with credit to herself, and advantage to the allies, the responsibilities she has shouldered.

"But I have known America for over twenty years, and have no fears. She will not only do her best—she will, if need be, achieve impossibilities.

"And she will emerge from her ordeal a broader and nobler nation—purged from many weaknesses and with the knowledge and the will to play that larger part in the ordering of the world for which she was always destined, and to which she is now committed."

The above gives us an idea of what is expected of Americans. We have a big and noble part to play, and every true son and daughter of this republic should study how to contribute to the one glorious and inevitable result—a victorious outcome—an honorable peace—and a great and worthy future.

Manifestly, one of the finest things we can now do—is to maintain our composure and refuse to be stampeded by any foolish fears as to the immediate future.

INDUSTRIAL PREPAREDNESS EFFICIENCY SOCIETY THEME

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, May 22.—The human factor in industrial preparedness was the keynote of the national conference headed by the Western Efficiency Society which convened in Chicago today.

The purpose of the conference is to deal with the war with Germany and with industrial preparedness following the termination of the struggle. Every phase of the industrial preparedness program is being discussed by efficiency experts, educators, representatives of labor and business men from various parts of the country.

A tomorrow's session "Labor and Industrial Preparedness" will be the topic of discussion.

Standardization, as a preparedness measure, the employment problem, education of both the workman and executive; government control as a war measure; training of the coming generation of workers and executives and "After the War—What?" are some of the big questions the conference expects to answer.

FIVE THOUSAND GROCERS WILL BANQUET TONIGHT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toledo, O., May 22.—Following a series of addresses on war problems as they affect grocers, nearly five thousand members of the Retail Grocers' association will attend a banquet in the terminal auditorium tonight and will make heavy inroads on grocers' supplies of the city which is entertaining them in annual convention. The day's program included addresses by W. P. M. McIntyre, Davenport, Ia.; W. F. Fiske, New York; C. F. Kurz of Iowa state university and L. M. H. Attenbach of Denver.

Secretary Percell of the National Association announces the following decisions in disputes: Claim of Ralph Bradley against Milwaukee and C. H. Mann against Muskogee allowed and claims of W. H. Harrington against Denver and J. Curry against Richmond, Va., disallowed. Services of players awarded as follows: Mike Igo to Quincy, Ray O'Brien to Nashville, Mac Alexander to Quincy, J. S. Moore to Moultrie, D. D. Dennison to Merit, Frank Williams to Warren, Ozzie Fleming to Clinton, Yockey to Denison.

Ask any pitcher about the "bean ball" and he will tell you "there ain't no such animal." Consider a batsman and he will tell you the story of his narrow escape from being beaned by the "bean ball." What's more, especially if the batsman is in a slump, he will charge that he hasn't been hitting because ever since that "bean ball" grazed his "bean," he's been "beating" at it with his foot, when up there hitting involuntarily, he's come into the proverbial bucket and "gun-shy" is what they call his ailment.

Pas holders will be stung as well as the paid customers at ball games under the new war tax, which provides that complimentary tickets shall be assessed at the same rate as in paid for, which means a payment of ten per cent. For instance, if a pass holder goes into the dollar seats he will have to fork over a dime, not for the club, but for Uncle Sam.

William (Ruck) Friel, veteran player, manager and umpire, has been named manager of the St. Louis Browns to succeed Danny Shay, who probably will be out of the game for a long, long while.

GILHOOLEY IS STAR TOUGH-LUCK PLAYER

Frank Gilhooley.

Frank Gilhooley, the New York Yanks' fast outfielder, can claim the distinction of being the game's leading hard-luck player. Last year he broke a leg and was out of the game a great part of the season and recently he broke a collar-bone and will not be able to play again for a month or six weeks. The Yanks will be crippled in his absence.

Friel, after leaving Columbus, managed St. Paul, then became an umpire. Now he returns to the managerial game. The Braves, after a poor start, are out of it, probably because of the loss of Shay.

The Louisville club sends Catcher Frank Crossin to Scranton with an agreement for repurchase if desired. Hub Perdue, however, goes adrift a free agent. Hub, who often has decided to retire and then changed his mind, now has retirement forced upon him. The Chattanooga club may furnish him a refuge for awhile. Crossin has had a sore arm for two seasons. He may regain some use of it at Scranton.

The Central league seems to have made a ten-strike in adding Richmond to its circuit. Not only has it added Richmond with $15,000 in paid subscriptions, but the attendance figures indicate that the club will more than break even on running expenses.

A story printed in Kansas City has it that the New Orleans club paid $2,500 for the release of Larry Gilbert. That may be so. Anyway, everybody seems satisfied, for Gilbert had declared he would play in his home town or nowhere.

The club owners at Minneapolis and St. Paul, in their desire to succeed in their operations, may have been influenced by a look at the Association club standing. As far as Indianapolis is concerned the race is settled. The Indians, unless somebody soon heads the Indians off.

Mayor Curley of Boston has broken into the baseball pages again, through his proclamation advising everybody to quit going to ball games and spend all their time working because of war in Europe.

Oscar Ewing, a pitcher for the Newark, Del., high school who in a recent game struck out 17 batters and did not allow a hit or a run, has been signed by the Martinsburg club of the Blue Ridge league.

The fight for Sunday ball is now on in Pennsylvania, where a bill has been introduced in the legislature prohibiting games to be played between the hours of three and six o'clock on Sunday. It played "under supervision of the proper municipal officials."

Freddie Smart of the Northwestern University in the dual meet against Indiana recently scored thirty points in taking six first places. Smart is the youngster who won first place in the 440-yard special hurdle race at the Pennsylvania relay meet last month.

Rodgers Hornsby of the Cardinals is one of the big attractions in the National league.

Fritz Mahall is a success at second base. The little fellow's fielding is keeping the Yankees high in the race.

PRICE FIXING O. K. IN WISCONSIN IF BILL BECOMES LAW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 22.—Price fixing in Wisconsin will be made legal according to a bill which has just been introduced in the legislature. The bill, which has the backing of the attorney general's office, and which was offered by Speaker Lawrence Whitely, Edgerton, administration man, provides that combinations to fix prices may be formed by the attorney general, provided that it shall be satisfactory to the public. The price fixed is a reasonable one. Those who combine to fix excessive prices will be liable to a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than three thousand dollars.

The bill was introduced to relieve those associations, especially farmers' co-operative associations, which, because of the present law, providing that two persons who meet to fix a price on a commodity are guilty of restraining trade, are hard hit by the measure. Unable to employ clever lawyers to evade the law, the farmers at present face the alternative of boosting prices individually or running the risk of prosecution under the civil statutes by combining to fix the prices.

A case at Madison recently where milk dealers met and adopted a resolution to boost milk from eight cents to ten cents a quart brought the attention of the state to the present law. The dealers later rescinded their action and dropped back to eight cents a quart, when warned by Attorney General Walter Owen that they would prosecute them if they didn't.

Chief Deputy Attorney General Walter Drew thinks there is considerable need for legislation of this kind, as proposed by Whitely.

He pointed out that when merchants and they are losing money, their association can meet and fix a price which will net them a reasonable profit. Drew also pointed out that these associations do much educational work in their lines and that this should be encouraged. Any attempt at restraint of trade or competition will be vigorously prosecuted as ever, said Drew.

"The bill does not aim to do away with competition," said Whitely. "There is no such thing as perfect competition as ever. This only takes care of those situations where prices have reached such a low level that the business is operating at a loss. It gives the merchant an opportunity to get together with others in the same line to agree on a fixed price for commodities."

So as to prevent any attempt at abuse of the law, it is probable that an amendment may be offered to the bill, providing that combinations fixing prices must file with the attorney general's office a schedule of the fixed prices and reasons for it.

The bill defines restraint of trade or commerce as an agreement between or among two or more persons, firms, partnerships, corporations or associations of persons for the following purposes:

First.—To create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce.

Second.—To limit or reduce the production, sale or distribution of any commodity, or to increase or reduce the price of merchandise or of any commodity.

Third.—To prevent competition.

Fourth.—To fix at an artificial figure, whereby its price to the public or consumer shall be in any manner affected, controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this state.

Fifth.—To make or enter into or execute or carry out any contracts, obligations or agreements of any kind or description by which the production, sale or distribution of any commodity, or to produce, sell, dispose of or transport any article or any commodity or any article of trade, use, merchandise or commerce or consumption below a standard figure or fixed value, or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation or the rate of profit thereon at a fixed or guaranteed figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article, commodity or transportation between them or between them and any other person, or as to directly benefit or indirectly preclude free and unrestricted competition among themselves or any of them, or between themselves or any of them and others, or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or directly or indirectly unite any interests that they may have connected with the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity for the purpose or with the result that its prices might in any manner be affected.

Sixth.—To make or to enter into any agreement whereby they shall agree or agree not to buy from or sell to any person or firm because such persons or firms are not members of their associations.

Seventh.—To fix increase or reduce cost for professional service for the rendering of which service or the practice of which profession a license is required under any law of this state.

The law provides that all of the above are unlawful and that every person who shall do the above things prohibited shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $5,000. Labor whether skilled or unskilled, is not a commodity or an article of merchandise within the meaning of this act.

BRITISH OFFENSIVE HOLDS BACK GERMANS FROM GREAT DRIVE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, May 22.—Something like 140 square miles of French territory regained; more than 60,000 prisoners taken; from 75,000 to 250,000 killed, and stoppage of all plans for a German western front offensive have been the results achieved to date in the great Franco-British offensive.

The figures are purely estimates. Neither the Allies or Germany have yet issued casualty lists for this fighting. The front is so irregular that it is difficult to figure out actual acreage wrested from the invader. But the defeat of Hindenburg's plans for the summer's fighting has been achieved beyond all doubt.

The strategy of the famous Hindenburg retreat was to force the British and French to make their much advertised spring offensive over ground chosen by the German commander and against positions defensively prepared in advance.

Hindenburg selected the last few days of winter as the time in which to make his retreat, figuring it was too early for the spring offensive to begin, and that the spring thaws would come at a time when movement of pursuing troops would be most difficult. However, in order to hamper pursuit, he laid waste to every inch of ground. At least three supplementary defense lines to the Hindenburg line were spread over this ground released to the French and British. The Germans figured these lines would check all advances and permit withdrawal with a minimum of German losses to the Hindenburg line. Once entrenched along the Hindenburg line, the Germans planned a spring offensive of their own on some other front, confident in the improbability of this long-prepared line against any Franco-British offensive.

But the French and British pursuit was far more speedy than the Germans had counted upon. Not only did the allies quickly swarm over the first preliminary German defense lines, but they speeded up and started their spring offensive several weeks ahead of time. Moreover, instead of directing the attacks at the pivots to the north and south on which Hindenburg had swung his retreat, the British pushed the northern point on this Hindenburg line by capture of Fresnoy, Gavrelle and Oppy.

To the south, the French crumbled it away around Cerny and Craonne, and it is around these northern and southern points that the fighting is of fiercest intensity today.

The Hindenburg line is supposed to start somewhere about Drocourt, which lies midway between Lens and Douai. A so-called "switch line" presumably long prepared, connects Drocourt with the old German line around Lens. From Drocourt the Hindenburg line swings through Bois Bernard, to Fresnoy, then south to Oppy, through Gavrelle, Roex, Felvel, Boiry-Notre Dame, Remy, Hendecourt, Riencourt, and to Quant.

This section of the Hindenburg line has been dubbed the "Wotan line" by the Germans, after the Norse Supreme God. The Wotan line is protected by the so-called Oppy line—a preliminary defense front between Oppy, Gavrelle and Roex. It has been penetrated at these three points by the British.

From Quant the Hindenburg line runs through Beaumont, Vilers Heudicourt, Roisel, Vermand, St. Quentin, Laon, Sissonne, Craonne, across the Aisne and down to a point north of Rheims.

This section, from Quant south, has been called the "Siegfried line" by the Germans—after the Wagnerian hero. It has been penetrated at Craonne and near Rheims by the French.

ILLINOIS ADOPTS PLAN TO TRAIN MEN SUBJECT TO DRAFT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Ill., May 19.—Illinois today accepted a military plan for the training of her men citizens subject to the selective draft and for the dissemination of military knowledge, and thereby led other states of the union in anticipating federal draft.

The plan which involves an expense either to state or nation, and interferes not at all with the federal army draft, was approved here today by the Illinois state council of defense, after it had been presented by Jory D. Oglesby, lieutenant governor and chairman of the military sub-committee of the council.

In presenting the plan, Lieutenant Governor Oglesby told the council the approval of the war department had been obtained through Adjutant General Dickson.

Under the plan, it is proposed to form the Council of Defense Volunteer Training Corps with posts in hundreds of cities and towns, each post to raise one company of three commissioned officers, fourteen "non-coms" and at least fifty-six privates. All organizations or units would be operated under recognized military methods and would be responsible to the state council of defense through its military committee.

Every man who enlisted would be expected to buy his own uniform, which would consist of campaign hat, breeches, blouse, leggings and shirt. For disobedience or infraction of discipline, a man would be subject to dishonorable discharge from the service with publication of the discharge.

The council of defense would appoint officers, upon recommendation of the adjutant general, to command the various units and reserve the right to accept resignations or vacate commissions. The council would also be authorized to accept the officers and men of completely organized units.

Any able-bodied man of good character, between the ages of 18 and 45, and who is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention of becoming such, would be eligible to enlist in the training corps.

Training in the volunteer training corps would entitle a man to consideration in the formation of future military or naval units, in the national guard or naval militia of the state.

In the oath of allegiance to the United States and the state of Illinois, which the plan proposes, those who might enlist would be required to agree to remain in the organization one year or until the end of the war.

Units would be obliged to drill at least two hours each week and maintain an attendance of at least 60 per cent of enrollment to avoid being disbanded.

No remuneration would be paid to any officer or private except "such men as the state council of defense may decide necessary to the carrying out of its plans."

Making "Cigarette-Comfort" for a Nation

Every minute of every day great batteries of throbbing machines are whirling out Fatimas by thousands.

Fifty-eight per clock-tick is Fatima's average—an average that is growing day by day because of Fatima's comfort.

Throughout the length and breadth of this great country, more smokers are daily learning the comfort-lesson Fatimas teach—the comfort to throat and tongue while smoking and the man-comfort that follows after smoking.

It's this constantly growing demand for Fatima-comfort that keeps the Fatima machines pouring forth thousands upon thousands of these famous cigarettes.

And it's this common-sense "cigarette-comfort" that makes men call Fatimas a sensible cigarette.
